THE PATRIOTS,

Under Command of Delgado, Capture the Town of Bujucal.

Bahia Honda, Province of Pinar del Rio, Captured and totally destroyed—A Spanish Trick Thwarted—An Attempted Assassination Foiled.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., April 14.—The town of Bujucal, which has been attacked several times, was assaulted again Sunday by the force of the patriot leader, Juan Delgado, who, after a short fight, entered the town and captured arms, ammunition and all kinds of supplies needed by his forces, leaving the place after burning about 30 houses.

Bahia Honda, a town of the provinces of Pinar del Rio, has been captured and totally destroyed by patriots. The Spanish garrison surrendered without resistance.

It is said at Havana that a man by the name of Miguel Beale was sent by the Havana police to see Baldogro Acosta, the patriot leader who operates around towns near Havana, to arrange a conference and plan for the capture or assassination of the leader. This manner of exterminating Cuban leaders is common in Spanish warfare. A few days ago Patriot Leader Robau ordered the execution of a Spanish emissary who attempted to poison him with a glass of wine.

After an encounter at Purgatorio, Matanzas, between Spanish forces and patriots, the Spaniards retreated with heavy loss to the city of Matanzas. Col. Thomas Carreas and seven more patriots were killed and eight wounded.

It is said that Monday alarm was occasioned at Spanish headquarters on account of the landing of another expedition at Pinar del Rio, where large reinforcements have been sent.

HAVANA, April 14.—A dispatch received by the Diario de la Marina from Madrid says that President McKinley recently offered the friendly mediation of the United States in Cuban affairs. Señor Canovas del Castillo, the prime minister, replied, thanking Mr. McKinley for the offer and requesting that the United States stop the work of filibusters in that country.

HAVANA, April 14.—Smallpox is raging at Guineos, a village of 8,000 inhabitants. During the last week there have been 150 victims.

The Garelano battalion, while near Siguanca, came upon three women who were carrying a wounded insurgent. The Spanish killed the insurgent and brought the women to Siguanca.

IKE SHEPPARD,

Who Confesses to Several Murders Under Arrest at Pittsburgh.

PITTSBURGH, April 14.—Ike Sheppard, (colored) wanted in Chicago for the murder of Wm. Brady, in April, 1896, was arrested here Tuesday. Sheppard confesses to not only the murder of Brady, but also to that of John Dougherty, at Webster, W. Va., in 1891, and says he has been mixed up in 18 or 20 other affairs of the kind.

He tells so many stories of murders that the officials are inclined to consider him not altogether sane. Sheppard is 36 years old. He says that in '96, while working on the drainage canal at Chicago, he and Brady, one of the bosses, quarreled over a board bill, and as Sheppard was getting the worst of it, he shot Brady three times, killing him.

The murder of Dougherty, he says, was the result of a fight over a game of cards. Dougherty accused Sheppard of cheating, and the shooting followed. Dougherty being killed with the second shot.

Recognition papers from the governor of Illinois for the return of Sheppard are here, and officers are expected to take him to Chicago.

GUESTS' PARADE.

A New Feature of the Grant Memorial Celebration in New York.

NEW YORK, April 14.—A new feature for the Grant memorial celebration has been added to the programme in the shape of a parade of the guests of the city from the Fifth Avenue hotel to the monument in the morning before the dedication ceremonies.

As matters have been arranged, they will all be driven in open carriages, if the weather is fine, over the same route which the army parade is to follow.

The carriages will form in a regular procession, two abreast, led by Troop A. In the first carriage, drawn by four horses, will be President McKinley, former President Grover Cleveland, Mayor Strong and Gen. Horace Porter. Following them in the other carriages will be the diplomatic corps, members of the cabinet, governors of states, senators, members of congress, generals, admirals, and all sorts of notables.

Grant's New Tomb Ready.

NEW YORK, April 14.—The work of unsealing the new casket in the temporary tomb of Gen. Grant was finished Tuesday night and everything is in readiness for the removal of the body to the crypt of the new tomb. The time of the removal is still kept secret. The sarcophagus is all ready for the reception of the coffin containing the body. The great lid, weighing a ton, has been raised by means of a derrick three feet above the sarcophagus proper, so that the coffin can be slid into the hollowed out portion.

Distinguished Visitors From Japan.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 14.—A party of distinguished Japanese visitors will leave here for Washington, D. C., Wednesday, K. Komatsu and K. Kuwawa have been appointed delegates to the International Postal congress in Washington by the Japanese government. The other members of the party are N. Kataoka, K. Nanji, Dr. T. Konou and Z. Kashimoto.

Condition of the Treasury.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—Tuesday's statement of the condition of the treasury shows: Available cash balance, $225,304,901; gold reserve, $153,673,281.

GETTING HOT.

Blows Exchanged on the Floor of the Assembly Room—Lyons Struck by Clarke, But Friends Interfere in Time to Prevent Blood Being Spilt.

FRANKFORT, Ky., April 15.—It was rumored Wednesday morning that John W. Gaines, father of Capt. Noel Gaines, had stated that one of the most prominent citizens of Louisville had come to him and offered him money to use in procuring three votes in the legislature for Dr. Godfrey Hunter for United States senator; that the aforementioned citizen had been the first and most prominent man in connection with the charges, and that when Gaines, sr., goes before the grand jury a sensation second only to that of the first charges of bribery will ensue.

The 36th ballot for United States senator in the meeting of the joint assembly Wednesday resulted: Hunter, 61; Blackburn, 44; Martin, 12; Boyle, 6; Stone, 1; present and voting, 124; necessary to a choice, 63. No election.

The 37th ballot resulted the same as the 36th, but on the 38th, when the name of Senator Elmore (Blackburn democrat) was reached, he failed to answer, and some little excitement was occasioned. The senate roll call was concluded, and the call of the representatives reached before he was found and came into the hall. One democrat at that time failing to vote would have elected Hunter. Elmore voted, however, at the conclusion of the ballot, which resulted: Hunter, 60; Blackburn, 43; Martin, 12; Boyle, 6; Stone, 1; necessary to a choice, 62. No election.

About this time James McMurtry and Representative J. C. Napier came near coming to blows in the rotunda. McMurtry accused Napier for not voting for Hunter when his vote would now elect him. Napier responded hotly, and friends interfered before there was any serious trouble.

McMurtry is from Garrard county, the home of Napier.

The fourth ballot of the day resulted: Hunter, 61; Blackburn, 44; Martin, 12; Boyle, 6; Stone 1. Necessary to a choice, 63. No election.

The fifth ballot of the day resulted: Hunter, 60; Blackburn, 43; Martin, 12; Boyle, 6; Stone 1; necessary to a choice, 62. No election.

At the end of the fifth senatorial ballot Hay moved to adjourn, seconded by Clarke. But when Lyons called for the yeas and nays, seconded by Bennett, Hay withdrew his motion.

During the sixth ballot of the day words passed between Senator Clarke, a bolting republican, and Representative W. H. Lyons (Hunter republican.) Clarke struck at Lyons, landing a light blow on Lyons' face. Friends intervened and prevented a desperate fight.

Lieut.-Gov. Worthington ordered the sergeant-at-arms to arrest the parties. Lyons was arrested and taken out.

It is said that Senator Clarke had started to draw his pistol. Lyons later resumed his seat.

FRANKFORT, Ky., April 15.—The Franklin county grand jury is continuing its investigation of the alleged bribery in the senatorial contest. Graham Vreeland, a newspaper correspondent, was one of the witnesses before the jury. He at first declined to talk and was ordered to jail by Judge Cantrell, but later consented to talk and was released. The investigation may be completed Thursday. The point is that there will be continuous balloting Thursday, but there is nothing in the situation Wednesday night to indicate a breaking up of the deadlock.

NOT ENCOURAGING.

Reports From the Overflowed Mississippi Delta—Fears the Waters Will Not Recede Before June.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., April 15.—Reports from the overflowed Mississippi delta Wednesday night are not encouraging. The expected fall in the waters, that extend for miles and miles over the fertile valley, has not occurred. Many well known planters express the fear that the yellow stream will not recede until June, too late to plant this year's crop. Much suffering still exists in Sunflower and Rogue Phallic country, where hundreds of Negroes have deserted their cabins and are huddled on high grounds and the railroad tracks. Many cabins are submerged to their very roofs, while several have been swept from their foundations and carried away by the swift current. On a plantation ten miles west of Helena, Sylvester Sanders, a colored tenant, his wife and five children, were overwhelmed by the current and all perished. Near Greenville Wednesday two Negroes were drowned in an attempt to reach dry land.

VICKSBURG, Miss., April 15.—At 6 o'clock Wednesday evening the situation here was a gloomy one. Cloudy, with rains, and a promise of high winds, and the great sea of water slowly but surely rising, promising to go above all work for its retention and the protection of the great valley, is the situation. At 6 p. m. the river had reached 51.6 feet on the gauge. Every inch now is more than a foot some days ago, for miles of the Louisiana line have stood their extreme limit and the rising river is being held back by the most untiring efforts ever made by any people. Human endurance is fast giving way and it is now only a question of how much more and how much longer the working forces can last.

Funds for Flood Sufferers.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., April 15.—Mr. R. W. Brown, managing editor of the Louisville Times, Tuesday delivered to Gov. Jones $1,289 in cash for relief of flood sufferers. The governor will send his private secretary on a tour through the flooded district to distribute the funds where needed.

Miners Strike.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., April 15.—The coal miners employed by the Essen Coal Co. on the Panhandle road, struck Wednesday for an advance of six cents per ton in the running rate. Three mines and 600 men are idle.

TARIFF BILL.

Senator Nelson Will Introduce Several Amendments to the Measure.

Nominations Confirmed by the Senate—Postal Authorities Embarrassed by the Failure of Congress to Pass the Appropriation to Defray Expenses.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—Much embarrassment to the postal authorities has been caused by the failure of congress to pass the bill for an appropriation of $200,000 to defray the expenditures of the International Postal congress to be held here next month. The urgency of the appropriation has been pointed out to congress, but no definite action has yet been taken, though there have been several such provisions inserted in bills introduced. Meanwhile the time for the meeting of the postal authorities of the world is close at hand and arrangements are being made without contracts, payment being contingent on the appropriation of funds. The foreign delegates are rapidly being announced to this government, but the complete personnel of the body will not be known until the opening. Postmaster General Gary has not yet determined on the delegates to represent this country, but will announce them very shortly. Col. Chaille-Long, the African explorer, has been in Washington some time, and will doubtless be one of the delegates. He was a caller on the postmaster general Tuesday and has presented his claims. He is a native of Maryland, and his availability as an accomplished linguist may determine his selection.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—Senator Nelson Tuesday gave notice of several amendments to the tariff bill. One of these abrogates after one year the Hawaiian reciprocity treaty. Another declares trusts or combinations for the restraint of trade or enhance the market price of imports or manufactures by two or more persons, either one of whom is an importer, to be "against public policy, illegal and void," and provides for the punishment of the offense by both fine and imprisonment. A third amendment authorizes the president to suspend by executive order the collection of all duties upon any imported article, the home product of which is controlled by a trust.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—The senate, in executive session Tuesday, confirmed the following nominations: Alfred E. Buck, of Georgia, to be minister to Japan; James Boyle, of Ohio, to be consul at Liverpool; Edgar A. Angier, of Georgia, to be U. S. attorney, northern district of Georgia; Marion Erwin, of Georgia, to be U. S. attorney, southern district of Georgia; W. T. Beall, of Leadville, Col., to be register of land office at Leadville, Col.; Alexander J. Cooke, of Mississippi, to be United States marshal northern district of Mississippi; Nathan P. Johnson, of Desmet, S. D., to be agent of the Indians of the Sisseton agency in South Dakota; William B. Ridgely to be postmaster at Springfield, Ill.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—The president has decided to recommend to congress an appropriation as indemnity for the killing by a mob of lynchers of three Italian citizens at Hahnville, La., August 8, last.

VOORHEES REMAINS

Arrive at the Hoosier Capital—Afterward Removed to Terre Haute.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., April 14.—On account of a wreck on the Pennsylvania railroad, it was necessary to transfer the remains of D. W. Voorhees to a Big Four train, and they arrived here an hour after the time expected. At 1 o'clock they were placed in the retarda of the state capitol under a military guard of honor. Gov. Mount, the state officers, the judges of the supreme and appellate courts, the federal officers and the city officers first filed by the coffin to view the body, and afterward came a crowd of citizens passing in single file on each side of the body.

There was a chant by choir boys at the capitol after the body arrived. The body was taken to Terre Haute at 3 o'clock in charge of W. R. McKeen and John E. Lamb, representing the citizens of Terre Haute.

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., April 14.—At Greencastle, where is located Depauw university, the late senator's alma mater, the funeral train was received with a salute from the college cannon, while the university cadets were drawn up in line as a mark of respect to the dead.

It was dark when the funeral car reached Terre Haute, but there was an immense assemblage of people. The casket was conveyed to the Terre Haute house, for many years the senator's home, where his body will lie in state until Thursday noon, the burial to take place at two o'clock on that day. Services will be held at St. Stephen's Episcopal church, of which Senator Voorhees was a member, after which the Masonic fraternity will have care of the funeral ceremonies.

Twelve Still Missing.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., April 14.—The charred remains of G. W. Roberts, of Pulaski, Tenn., were taken from the ruins of the Hotel Knox Tuesday. The search continues, and it is expected that other bodies will be found Wednesday. Inquiries have been received for a dozen men who are supposed to have been burned. Of the 52 people in the house only about 40 have been accounted for.

The Remains of Consul Lott.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, March 26.—The remains of Hon. Hiram R. Lott, United States consul at Managua, who died June 16, 1895, were to-day disinterred for shipment via San Francisco, to the home of his daughter at Floyd, La.

Damage Suit Against the Hayes Estate.

FREMONT, April 14.—The $25,000 damage suit of Mrs. Addie M. Smith against the estate of ex-President Hayes, was placed on trial Tuesday. The suit is for injuries alleged to have been received in a runaway caused by a vicious dog of the Hayes family.

INCENDIARISM.

Kansas City at the Mercy of a Band of Firebugs—Several Fires in the Very Business Center of the Hustling City.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 15.—Since 9 o'clock Wednesday night Kansas City seems to have been at the mercy of a band of incendiaries. Between 9 o'clock Wednesday night and 1 o'clock Thursday morning, seven fires broke out in the very business center of the city. At least four and probably all of those fires were of incendiary origin. While the majority of the blazes were extinguished in their incipiency, two of them resulted in heavy damages. The big five-story Scarritt block, on Walnut street, near Ninth, was destroyed, entailing a loss of $60,000, and from this structure the flames spread to an adjoining structure on Main street, also owned by the Scarritt estate, and occupied by the Campbell & Eaton Crocker Co. The building on Main street was damaged to the extent of $10,000 and the crockery stocks suffered an equal damage. Only by a very narrow margin were other adjoining buildings saved from destruction.

It was while this dangerous fire was raging that the torch was applied in various parts of the business district. At Twelfth and Walnut streets fire was started in a pile of dry goods boxes in an alley. At Twelfth street and Grand avenue the torch was applied to excelsior thrust in the hallway of a lodging house. At Fifth and Delaware fire was started in the rear of the Armour building. Another fire was started in the rear of Loos Brothers' cracker manufactory, at Second and Main streets, and still another at Hill's brewery, on the East bottoms. In several of these fires coal oil was freely used by the incendiaries.

At 1 o'clock Thursday morning, when the forces of the fire department were scattered and possibly somewhat demoralized, fire was discovered in C. S. Lovejoy's planing mill, at Fourteenth and Main streets. The fire had gained such great headway that the building was soon enveloped in flames, and within a short time the planing mill, with all its valuable machinery and a big stock of manufactured lumber, was in ruins. The loss is heavy. That this fire and the fire in the Scarritt block were of incendiary origin there is no direct proof, but all the indications are that firebugs alone are responsible.

Nor are the fires of Wednesday night the first of the kind recently. About two weeks ago three fires were started within two days at Twelfth and Walnut streets, but all were extinguished without serious loss. The loss on Lovejoy's planing mill and machinery is $10,000, and on his stock the loss is $7,000 additional. What could be the motive of the incendiaries is purely a matter of speculation, but among the excited business men who were gathered about the streets in small groups at 2 o'clock Thursday morning seriously discussing the situation, the opinion is frequently expressed that the gambler element, which has so long held sway in Kansas City and which is now forced to quit its operations, owing to a complete overhauling of police administration, is at the bottom of the incendiariness.

QUADRUPLE MURDER.

Husband, Wife, Daughter and Boarder the Victims—The Bodies Cremated.

PASCOAG, R. I., April 15.—A quadruple murder was committed at Oaklawn, R. I., a few miles from this place, early Wednesday morning, at what is known as the old Elisha Mattheson place.

The murderer, in order to cover up his crime, fired the house, but before it was totally destroyed the body of Mrs. Edward Reynolds was taken out. Her head was mashed.

Later the charred body of her 16-year-old daughter was taken out, and it is supposed that the bodies of Edward Reynolds, the husband, and a boarder are in the ruins.

Before the building was destroyed a number of people discovered clots of blood on the floor, where a fierce struggle had evidently taken place.

Martin Mowry, who was missing from the scene of the Reynolds tragedy, was found hiding in a barn near Harrisonville Tuesday forenoon and was at once placed under arrest on suspicion of having been involved in the affair.

Nominations by the President.

WASHINGTON, April 15.—The president, Wednesday, sent the following nominations to the senate:

State—James B. Angell, of Michigan, to be envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary of the United States, to Turkey; Geo. N. West, of the District of Columbia, consul of the United States to Pietro, Nova Scotia.

War—George D. Meiklejohn, of Nebraska, to be assistant secretary of the War; George L. Black, of Pennsylvania, and Andrew McMillan, who acted as toastmaster, and on the left Senator Jones, of Arkansas; Representative Bland, of Missouri; Lentz, of Ohio, and ex-representative Sibley, of Pennsylvania, and Adre Lipscomb, of Virginia.

Mr. Bryan was greeted with a lusty cheer as he entered the hall. The menu was carefully prepared, and was similar to such a dinner as might have been served during Jefferson's days.

THE DEAR OLD WORLD.

My dear old world, I love you so! Your rain and frost, and dew and snow, And rock and river, lake and sea, Are like familiar friends to me.

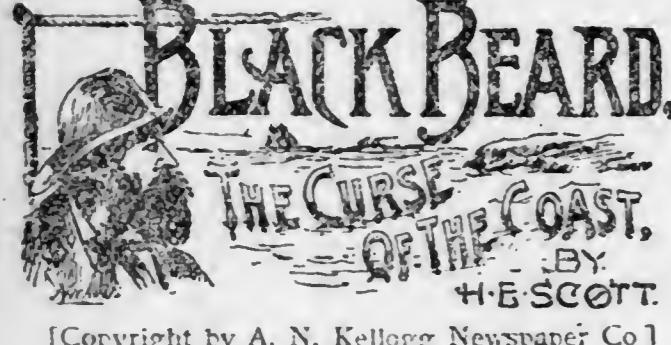

I love your mountains, tall and grand, Your lonesome caves and wastes of sand. The flowers and ferns that deck the sod Are all the generous gifts of God.

The other worlds are faint and far, Each one a point, a speck, a star; I know them not, their thronging hosts Are strange and dim, like dreams or ghosts.

But you, my world of light and shade, Know you well, your beams are laid Plain in my sight; beneath your dome I live, and love, and feel at home.

Here was my cradle rocked, and here My mortal frame shall disappear. Some blessed hour, in slumber deep, Back to your heart your child will creep.

CHAPTER XXIV.

"IN MY CASE, THE SEA GAVE UP ITS DEAD."

At ten o'clock on the morning of the 10th Hugh Gordon and Tom boarded the steamer for Wilmington, where they arrived at noon.

Tom had stabled at home "that he was going up the river on the steamer, but would be back before the time set for the marriage ceremony."

His father and mother supposed that his errand to town was to procure some present for one or both of the brides.

Arrived in Wilmington, the two gentlemen proceeded to the Carolina hotel to dinner, and at two o'clock stood on the piazza of a brick residence on Chestnut street.

Hugh Gordon thumped on the old-fashioned knocker, and a colored girl opened the door.

"How is the colonel to-day?" asked Gordon.

"The doctor say he much improved; he in office; come dis away."

They followed the girl into the office. A smooth-faced gentleman, whose silvery hair bespoke the fact that he had passed the meridian of life, was seated in a large rocker before a table on which were arranged before him numerous papers and law books, while from the array along the wall it was evident to Tom that they were in the office of an attorney at law.

"Good day, gentlemen; will you be seated? Hester, will you place chairs for the gentlemen near the table?"

"Colonel," said Gordon, "I trust I find you much improved."

"Very much, Mr. Gordon, thank you."

"Allow me, colonel, to introduce my friend Lieut. Thomas Hill."

"Indeed, young man, I am glad to meet you. I have had the pleasure of lifelong acquaintance with your father, but I suppose that he now thinks I am at the bottom of the sea."

"I remember seeing you often, at our home, when a boy, and can assure you, my father greatly regretted to hear of your loss at sea; if I remember it was at the time the Media went down."

"The same, Tom. You will excuse me for calling an old friend's children by their given names."

"I should wish to be called no other, colonel."

"Well, Gordon, how did your swain operate? I suppose Tom is conversant with the matter, or he would not be here in your company?"

"He is fully so, colonel, and together we listened to admissions by Lathrop of his guilt."

Here Gordon related all that had transpired, the night before, in the library at Kendall.

"He is evidently filled with remorse at this time," said Col. Strange, for he it was.

"So much so, that I doubt even if the justice of the law is meted out to him."

"You fear suicide, then?"

"I should not be surprised at any time to hear that he had taken his life. I feel almost certain that he will attempt it, when he is confronted with the charge of murdering his uncle."

"Far better should he die by his own hand," said the attorney. "My poor friend, Loyd, distrusted Herbert, but little did he think that the youth he educated and raised would prove his assassin."

"Colonel, will you please state to Mr. Hill, the circumstances in regard to the will of the banker?"

"That is soon done: On the 29th day of October, 1829, at just about this hour, John Loyd sat where you now sit, and at his dictation I drew up his will. He desired to have me act as his administrator, in case of his death. I had all arrangements made for a trip to Europe, and stated that sometimes people were lost at sea, and suggested that he select some one else, or leave a vacancy, until I returned."

"He replied: 'Leave the name vacant, Jim; you know more as to my affairs than does anyone else, and I guess I won't peg out before you return.'

"No, John, I trust not," I said, "for many years to come, but should you, the name being absent would not invalidate the will, and the court would see that your daughter was properly protected. In the will was a clause leaving Herbert Lathrop $5,000, and Mr. Loyd seemed to think that he was treating him very liberally. He said as much, and added: 'If at his age he cannot succeed in life, with the education I have given him and $5,000, he probably would not with more.'

"Of course, should I live for years and see proper to make his bequest larger, I can do so, but that is enough money to place in the hands of a young man of his age."

"Andrew Bligh, passing as I had concluded writing the will, I called him in, and he and myself signed it as witnesses; but poor Bligh went down with the ill-fated Media, while in my case the sea gave up its dead, that I might aid in bringing to justice the murderer of my old friend."

"Herbert Lathrop altered that will, either directly before or after the murder."

"It was an easy matter for a man proficient with a pen to add a cipher, and change a five to fifty, and it was done. Then seeing that the provisions of the will required no bond, what easier than to insert the name Herbert Lathrop, and the handling of John Loyd's fortune was in his hands.

"The fortune may have suffered much, but I trust not. He was so anxious to call your sister wife that he has hardly dissipated much of it, and then, doubtless he was held in check by a knowledge that your father and Clarence would have an eye on him."

"I congratulate you most fervently, young man, on the escape of your sister."

"It has been, indeed, narrow escape," said Tom. "Then Herbert Lathrop is responsible for the creation of Black Beard?"

"It would seem so, but I have not yet concluded. Two months after drawing John Loyd's will, I took passage on the Media for Europe; we were wrecked but 100 miles from our destination, and 40 miles from the coast. Passengers and crew were with but three exceptions lost. I was one of the three, a New Yorker, named Murray, and Griswold, the purser, were the other two. We stuck to the wreck, and after four days of the most terrible suffering, were rescued, all others on board trusted to the ship's boats, and were overcome by the tremendous waves, and lost."

"My mind had become so affected by the strain that until three months ago I was an inmate of an asylum in England, but fortune eventually smiled on me, and I have regained my reason. I have now been home two weeks, but it is not generally known, as my physician counsels rest of mind for yet another year, and I do not care to take up the law again. Now it is only necessary for you to go to the courthouse and make affidavit of the facts which you have learned. Warrants will be issued for the apprehension of Lathrop, and officers accompany you back and apprehend him."

At five o'clock Gordon and Tom, with two officers, boated the Sunshine, but it was yet a good half hour before she cast off lines; she delayed as long as could be done with safety in order to give those who desired to attend the wedding an opportunity to do so.

However, at 5:30 the little steamer got under way, and it was expected that she would easily reach Orion in two hours, but by a bad stroke of misfortune, she broke the shaft of her propeller when off Town Creek, and yet a good nine miles from Orion.

"The jig is up," said the captain, "here we lay all night, unless we send a boat back for a tug to tow us back to town, we're here for three or four hours certainly. I am sorry, but you'll all miss the double marriage, unless I put you ashore, and you walk, and I haven't time to do that, as I must dispatch boat for help."

"Captain," exclaimed Tom, quickly, "will you kindly put this party on shore? I must be at my brother's wedding."

"Why, yes, Tom, if you can struggle through those swamps; it's past six now, you have an hour and a half to cover nine miles of swampy and sandy ridges; it is impossible."

"I think not, captain, if you will do quick. Horrell lives but three miles from here. I'll get a rig from him to carry us from there on."

"True, you may get there in that way, but you'll be worth looking at before you get out of the swamp."

"Blate, send these four gentlemen ashore, then take four good carmen and pull back to town for a tug."

The Lieutenant, Gordon, and the officers were soon struggling through the swamp in the direction of Horrell's, and there we will leave them and return to Orion.

CHAPTER XXV.

NOT A DOUBLE WEDDING.

At 7:30 on the night of the 10th, the little chapel was brightly illuminated, and a number of neighboring planters, with their wives, were seated and waiting the arrival of the contracting parties to the two marriages that would soon take place.

The first dozen seats in the chapel as one entered the door were filled with a number of the old family servants of the Hills and of John Loyd.

Uncle Job was there, and felt his importance much, for had he not belonged to Squire Hill's father before him, and had he not trotted on his knee, in their childhood, all of his master's children?

Dinah was there, rigged out in furbelows and ribbons, her round, black face beaming with smiles, and aside from those on the inside of the chapel there were a good number on the outside, waiting to catch a glimpse of young master and miss when they entered the chapel.

At 15 minutes to eight a carriage rolled up and the clergyman, Rev. Eliot Chambers, with his wife and daughter, descended from it and entered the chapel.

Plaeing his wife and daughter in seats well advanced, Rev. Chambers entered the vestry, from which ten minutes later he emerged clad in the robes of the Church of England.

At this moment two carriages dashed up from opposite directions.

From one descended Squire Hill, his wife, Clarence and Clara; and from the other Fannie, Herbert Lathrop and Aunt Mag.

"I would Tom were here," said the squire, "and the guests from Wilmington. Something must have delayed the steamer. It can't be helped; they may be here to join us in the wedding supper."

"The time has arrived, Clarence. See the clergyman is waiting. Let there never be delay in a marriage."

A moment more and Clarence and Fannie stood before the man of God.

"If there be any here who know of any impediment why this man and woman may not lawfully be joined together in wedlock, let them now speak, and hereafter hold their peace."

There were none who spoke.

"Who giveth this woman to be married to this man?"

Herbert Lathrop looked both pale and nervous as he placed Fannie's hand in that of Clarence, and in a moment more Clarence led his blushing bride one side, and Herbert Lathrop and Clara Hill stood before the altar.

Clara appeared as lovely as ever, but the expression on her face was not one to denote happiness.

But a short distance behind Lathrop, and leaning against one of the pillars of the chapel, was Aunt Mag.

Her quadroon face was nearly as pale as Herbert's, and she had been glancing nervously toward the door ever since she had entered the chapel. Now the time had come, and he who was to attend to the balance was not there.

"Daft me! Daft me!" thought Mag, "but ole master, I done swar the man what murdered you shall never marry Clara Hill. A nigger's oath don't count, master, but dis do," and she clutched tightly the handle of the knife that her dress skirt concealed.

"If there be any present who know of any impediment why this man and this woman may not lawfully be joined together in wedlock, let them now speak, and hereafter hold their peace."

"I know, master!" and the tall quadroon stood erect.

Every eye in the chapel was turned towards her with astonishment.

She knew that to pause would be fatal to her purpose, as she would be ejected from the chapel as insane, and before the onlookers could recover from their astonishment, she hastened on.

Herbert Lathrop murdered his uncle, I saw him strike the blow. It was not Angus Bruce."

At that moment steps were heard on the piazza of the chapel.

"He struck the blow from behind the back of Angus, and caused him to fall to the ground."

"Polly, you've got me there! I haven't an idea where it was."

"Well, it sounded mysterious and queer. I heard some one say, just as I was going on a car this morning: 'The cat's out of the bag.'

"You don't imagine, Polly, they were talking of you?"

"But, Cyrus, it was only yesterday I sent that old black cat that came into our cellar away in a bag."

"Oho—Polly! The cat's out of the bag with a vengeance."

"But how did it get out? I told Henry to carry it down to the river and merely float it in a bag."

"It evidently got out."

"But how did anyone know whose cat it was?"

Mrs. Jimson was beginning to cry, and Mr. Jimson's face relaxed a little of its severity.

"Polly, it's all right, only you were born a decade too soon. You'll catch on some of these days, and then you'll be able to distinguish between a joke and a sermon. Now, just remember this. Next to letting a cat out of a bag the worst thing is to try and crowd it in again. Slow, Polly!"—Chicago Times-Herald.

SHE TURNED UP AGAIN.

"The dead return to thwart me! Aunt Mag turned traitor, too!"

Fannie lay unconscious in the arms of Clarence, while Clara, leaning on the arm of her father, stood white and silent as a statue.

"Officers," said Gordon, "do your duty."

The officers started towards Herbert with the handcuffs.

All in the chapel were on their feet.

The spell that bound the assassin seemed suddenly broken. "All, all goes wrong! but Mag, the traitor," and before the officers could reach him, he raised his weapon and fired.

The quadroon fell in the main aisle of the chapel, and with one frantic cry Herbert leaped on the chancel, vanished through an open vestry door, then cut into night and darkness, and after him the two officers of the law.

[TO BE CONTINUED.]

A FIGURE OF SPEECH.

Mrs. Jimson Wanted to Know the Meaning of a Common Saying.

"What does it mean about letting the cat out of the bag?" asked Mrs. Jimson meditatively making imaginary letters with a forefinger.

"Oh, it's just a figure of speech," answered Mr. Jimson.

"Do you mean a cat's figure?"

"Bless the woman, she's gone daft on cats."

"No, really, Cyrus, 'the cat' must mean some particular one. Now, what cat has been let out of a bag?"

"Polly, you've got me there! I haven't an idea where it was."

"Well, it sounded mysterious and queer. I heard some one say, just as I was going on a car this morning: 'The cat's out of the bag.'

"But how did it get out? I told Henry to carry it down to the river and merely float it in a bag."

"It evidently got out."

"But how did anyone know whose cat it was?"

Mrs. Jimson was beginning to cry, and Mr. Jimson's face relaxed a little of its severity.

"Polly, it's all right, only you were born a decade too soon. You'll catch on some of these days, and then you'll be able to distinguish between a joke and a sermon. Now, just remember this. Next to letting a cat out of a bag the worst thing is to try and crowd it in again. Slow, Polly!"—Chicago Times-Herald.

SHE TURNED UP AGAIN.

Raft Proved to be a Poor Conveyance for an Elopement.

"I rode up to a cabin in Knox county, Ky., said John Williams, a traveling man, to a Star reporter, "and as I approached the man of the house, inquired:

"Stranger, did yo' see a red-headed gal with a yaller sunbonnet comin' from town?"

A Word To The Young Folks.

THE weather is growing milder, and soon bright, sunny days will be here, and all the young folks will have a chance to breathe out-door air. Tarr & Templin, the popular planing mill men, are doing a liberal part to help the young folks enjoy the Spring-time—fitting up a big lot of their patent swings—just the thing for mild out-door outings. Cheap and substantial, and safe and easy for a child to operate.

A prize—a free swing—is offered to the child (fifteen years or under) who writes the best advertisement for the "Templin Swing." Send in your ad. This competition will close April 25th—a number of young people having asked for a little more time to finish their advertisements—hence the extension. Send yours in now and be in time.

Another Bourbon Pike Free.

PARIS can now be entered from any precinct free of toll and not a tollgate has been removed by raiders. Out of about fifty pikes in Bourbon all are practically free except the Bethlehem, Hume & Bedford, Townsend and the Maysville & Lexington pikes. The roads have been acquired by gift, by trade and by purchase and Bourbon county has not had a gate removed in an unlawful manner within its limits.

The Fiscal Court yesterday secured control of ten miles of the Georgetown pike and the road will be made free today. The court agrees to pay six per cent on the appraised value of the road—about $6,500—and will buy the road in five years. The court also secured control of the Mt. Sterling & Flat Rock (2½ miles) pike by assuming its debt of $110.

Justices Boulden and Lilleston were appointed a committee to go over the Paris & Jackstown pike (10 miles) and examine same. This road will probably be secured in a few days.

The court will meet again next Friday.

Will of Socrates Bowles.

The will of Socrates Bowles has been probated and filed at the County Clerk's office.

The instrument desires that his marriage contrast ($5,000) with his wife, Mary Duke Bowles, be strictly complied with. In addition to this he bequeaths to her one bed room set of furniture and a horse and buggy to be selected by her.

The remainder of his property is divided among his four children—Mrs. Hannah Butler, (wife of H. A. Butler, of Vine street, this city,) Mrs. Mary E. Alexander, of Muir, Nathan C. Bowles and John W. Bowles, of Missouri.

Henry Spears is appointed by testators to be trustee for Mrs. Mary E. Alexander, and directed to hold her portion of the estate in trust for her. The property is to revert to her children and is not to be subject to debts of anyone.

J. J. McClinton is selected as trustee for Mrs. Hannah Butler, and her portion is subject to the same conditions as Mrs. Alexander's.

The testators appoints Robert L. Bowles sole executor without bond.

The will is dated Sept. 19, 1893, and is attested by Dr. Wash Fithian and G. W. Judy.

The estate consists of about 300 acres of fine Bourbon land.

Tollgate Destruction.

In Mercer Tuesday night thirty-five armed men destroyed a tollgate and left a notice threatening Keeper Lyon with instant death if he collected another cent of toll was tacked on the door.

The raiders have threatened a Lancaster newspaper man with violence if he continues to denounce them.

The raiders have not yet removed a gate on the Maysville & Lexington pike, owned by Col. W. W. Baldwin. Fear of relentless prosecution by Col. Baldwin makes them hesitate.

A. O. Kendall, special collector at the most important gate in Fleming, has been warned that if he continued to collect toll he would be visited by 200 raiders and severely cowhided. Kendall has armed himself and is determined to collect the toll. The turnpike corporation is a powerful one and will back him up.

Keepers of tollgates in Madison have armed themselves and will shoot to kill when their gates are attacked.

The determination to collect toll in Mercer will probably cause the raiders to use the torch and dynamite. People in certain portions of Mercer, Garrard and Madison live in constant fear of being blown up by dynamite or cremated.

A gate in the center of the village of Helena, Mason county, has been removed, and one on the Helena and Maysville pike was also removed the same night. A reward of $200 has been offered for the arrest and conviction of all or any one of the mob.

James Anderson, toll-gate keeper on the Owingsville and Water Dell turnpike, in Bath county, has received a written notice to stop collecting toll at his gate under serious penalty. He will continue to collect as usual.

The Carlisle Mercury says: "Raiders have removed in the past week seven gates as follows: The Mastin and Brayfield gates on the Carlisle and Sharpsburg road; Mrs. Welch's on the Parks' Ferry pike; Frank Quiet's on the Bramblett pike, Louderback's on the Miller's Station road; the one nearest Moorefield on the road to Upper Blue Lick, and the one on the Locust Grove road. At each of the gates the keepers were warned against collecting further toll, and as yet, so far as we can learn, no toll is being collected. No damage was done to the houses, and no one hurt. The first party was composed of about fifteen, and the Sunday night gang of nine or dozen. In some instances the raiders were not masked, and it is said that several of them were identified, but no names have been given out."

OBITUARY.

Respectfully Dedicated To The Memory Of The Dead.

Sam'l C. Hume, youngest son of D. J. Hume, of Elizabeth, died Wednesday at Mexico, Mo. He leaves a wife, who was formerly Miss Annie Hortense Redmon. The remains will arrive here this morning on the 11:15 L. & N. train and the burial will occur at the local cemetery, with services by Rev. E. H. Rutherford. The pall-bearers will be Chas. Redmon, John Clay, Castle Redmon, J. W. Wright, Jo Redmon, J. B. Frakes, Joe Lair.

Mrs. Mollie McClure Owens, wife of W. H. Owens, railway postal clerk on the L. & N., between Covington and Maysville, died suddenly Tuesday of apoplexy at her home in Covington. The deceased was a daughter of the late John T. McClure, and was a sister of Mr. James McClure, of this city, Dorsey McClure, of Covington, and Miss Mattie McClure, of New York. She was forty-eight years old and is survived by a husband and five children—the youngest 2½ and the elder 17 years of age. The remains were brought to this city yesterday morning on the 11:15 L. & N. train and were interred at the local cemetery. Services were held at the grave by Rev. E. G. B. Mann. The pall-bearers were Messrs. G. T. McCary, R. J. Neely, J. D. McClinton, E. T. Beeding, J. J. McClinton and J. P. Hutchcraft.

Excursion To Cincinnati.

THE L. & N. will run the first excursion of the season from Paris to Cincinnati, on Sunday, April 25th. Fare for round-trip $1.25. Tickets good on regular trains of that date.

F. B. CARR, Ag't.

From The Birth Place to the Tomb of U. S. Grant Cheap Excursion Rates to New York City.

On account of the unveiling of the Grant monument in New York City, excursion tickets will be sold via the C. & O. Route at greatly reduced rates. Tickets will be sold at regular prices to those who do not return to New York, until and including May 4th. The Chesapeake and Ohio is the only line passing within view of General Grant's birth place at Point Pleasant, Ohio and the cemetery at Mayfield, Ky., where he received his early education and from which he went direct to West Point.

The famous F. V. Limited leaving Lexington at 11:25 a. m. is the only modern equipped train running through to New York without change, serving all points in Dining car. Washington Express leaving Lexington 8:35 p. m. connects in Washington the next afternoon with Congressional Limited.

The scenery of the Chesapeake and Ohio particularly at this season of the year is more attractive than can be had along the line of any other Rail Road of equal extent in the world.

You should see the line of mattings J. T. Hinton is showing. Nobody can touch him. Prices from 8½ cts. per yard, up.

THE CITY BEAUTIFUL.

Jerusalem Is Not Disillusionizing to the Western Visitor.

A city beautiful! On Palm Sunday, from the stairway near the spot where Mary stood when the body of her Son was taken from the cross, I saw the Greek procession in the Church of the Sepulcher. Then I went over to the Mount of Olives. Looking back from a field well up on the hillside, the whole city lay beneath—the temple area, with the great mosque in full view across the valley of Jehoshaphat. From here Jerusalem, with its clear and stately outline of walls, the domes and minarets of the mosques, and the old towers and churches, has a singular completeness. Perhaps, even in Solomon's time, from the outside, though different, it was not more lovely. The warm gray of the stones of the city is the color of the unbleached wool of goats; the hills are darker, with a delicate bloom over them, spotted with gray olive orchards, and melting in the distance into violet. It is indeed a city set upon a hill, isolated, distinguished. The picture realizes one's lifelong dream of the city of God.

The sunset sky was wild and cold, with streaks of sunshine. The rain ceased, and the air grew warm. In the rich, low light all blemishes were lost, and the City Beautiful was spread before the pilgrim's eyes. Perhaps it was here that Christ wept over Jerusalem: along or near this path He must have come on the day of His "entry" on the first Palm Sunday, whose feast was being kept this very day throughout all Christendom. There were no other travelers; a few Syrians passed by. I gathered some flowers by the wayside and turned again homeward.

You see that we did not find the Holy Land disillusionizing. There are many things that confound the western mind; there is filth and degradation and superstition. But here is the same sky, the same landscape, the same dominating Orient. The painter who knows the Holy Land best said to us in Jerusalem: "At times when I look at these fields, and realize that this very picture was reflected in the eyes of Jesus, I feel myself shiver." The Bible, no matter what one's theology or philosophy, here takes on a vitality and meaning beyond the power of conception hitherto. Are the places real? Jerusalem, all Syria, is real, and some of the "sacred places" are unquestionable. But you do not have to be sure that the place is exact, when you listen, with a new emotion, to the words of Jesus, repeated by the French monk on Good Friday, and at that "station of the cross" where Christ cried out: "Daughters of Jerusalem, weep not for Me, but weep for yourselves, and for your children!" —Richard Watson Gilder, in Century.

TOMATOES POPULAR IN ITALY.

All Classes of King Humbert's Sub-jets Take to the Vegetables.

In every house and cottage in Italy the preserving of tomatoes is carried on. Terraces, balconies and even the flat roofs of the houses are half covered with plates containing the deep red substance. After gathering, the tomatoes intended for preserving are spread out for some hours in the sun till the skin has somewhat shrunk. They are then passed through a sieve so that they may be freed both from seeds and skins. As they contain a larger proportion of water the substance which has been passed through the sieve must be hung in bags, from which the water exudes, and soon a pool of dirty-looking water is formed beneath each bag. Strange to say, it is in no way tinged with red.

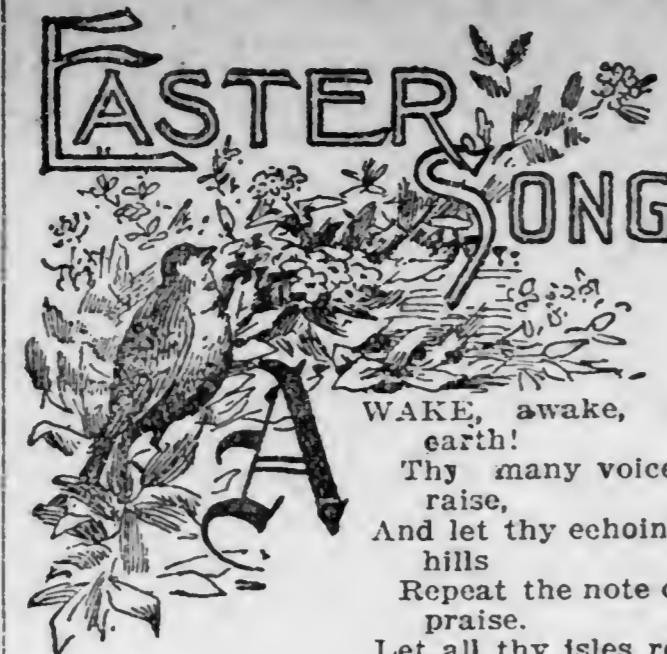

The mixture which remains in the bags has the consistency of a very thick paste. It is then salted, the proportion being a little less than one ounce of salt to a pound of preserve. The process now requires that it shall be spread on flat plates, exposed to the sun and stirred from time to time with a wooden spoon, so that the upper part may not form a crust, while underneath it remains soft. It is a picturesque sight when the women are to be seen flitting about on the roofs and terraces, attending to the deep red preserve, their colored handkerchiefs flung on their heads to screen them from the rays of the burning sun when it is at its fiercest.

In the evening the contents of the various plates are taken in and stirred together, for if moistened by the night dew the whole would be spoiled. After being exposed to the sun for seven or eight days, the same process being repeated each day, the preserve is finished and placed in jars for winter use.

Though it is used for all classes of persons, it is more necessary to the poor than to the rich, for the latter can make use of the fresh tomatoes preserved in tins. Tomatoes may be tinned whole, as we know from those usually imported into England from America. But in Italy the fruit is usually passed through a sieve, the pulp being then placed in tins, which are immediately soldered down and then put in boiling water for five minutes. The cost of a small tin is half a franc, so it is, as a rule, beyond the means of the poor.—Chamber's Journal.

Fresh Fish.

In many places in warm climates it is customary to keep fish alive until they are sold. It would otherwise be impossible to keep them from spoiling, except by too expensive refrigerating. The marketman is likely to be the fisherman himself, and to keep his catch in a well on his boat or in a slatted box in the water. The buyer looks over the fish and picks out the one he wants, and the seller then kills the fish with a blow on the head with a club, or with a knife. It is a common thing to kill the fish in the presence of the customer. Fish are sold in this way at, for instance, Key West, Havana and Genoa.—N. Y. Sun.

WAKE, awake, O earth!
Thy many voices raise
And let thy echoing hills
Repeat the note of praise.
Let all thy isles rejoice!

Let seas take up the strain—
Christ from the dead hath come!
He lives, He lives again!

Awake, awake, O earth!
Forget the hour of gloom
When in thy shuddering breast
Thy Maker claimed a tomb.
Put off thy wintry robes
For garb of joyous spring;
Crown thee with lilies fair
To greet the risen King!

Bring treasures of the field,
Bring leaf and blossom sweet,
Thy choicest and thy best,
Before His pierced feet.
While all thy sons are glad,
And tears are put away,
Let youth and age alike
Sing Christ is risen to-day!

Lift up thy gates with praise,
And robes of joy put on,
The Lord of Life and Death
Hath risen to His throne.
He hath gone up on high,
And giveth gifts to men;
He lives, no more to die,
Alleluia, Amen.

—Lucy Randolph Fleming, in Harper's Bazaar.

MISS SARAH H. GRANT stood at the window of her little dining-room looking out at the tiny yard that separated her cottage from the street. It was the last day of March, but the air was full of the magnetic influence of spring. The grass was freshening while in the bed of brown earth at the right of the walk hardy daffodils, jonquils and one adventurous hyacinth nodded to the passers-by.

Miss Grant sighed a little impatiently as she turned from the window. Her neatly spread tea table stood waiting. There were a solitary cup, saucer and plate, each of rare old china. The silver was massive, of the fashion of a half century ago. There were slices of snowy home-made bread, all cut of exactly the same thickness, a pot of golden butter, a chicken salad, milk, a glass of amber jelly, and sugared doughnuts. It looked tempting. But the cloud did not lift from Miss Grant's face as she brought the steaming teapot from the kitchen and seated herself for her evening meal. She bowed in silence for a moment. Then, adjusting her napkin carefully over her neat black cashmere, she said to herself:

"And to-morrow's April Fool's day, too! As if there wasn't enough to bother without that! For the fact of its being Sunday won't make any difference with those unruly boys. Well, if they attempt to play any tricks upon me they'll suffer, that's all."

Had the most daring urchin in Glenville behold the scowl upon Miss Sarah's face he would have hesitated long before attempting to "fool" her. She creamed her tea and slowly buttered a slice of bread.

"I haven't the heart to eat," she exclaimed a moment later. "To think that a Grand should have his home sold on a mortgage. I'm glad our father didn't live to know it."

Miss Sarah had devoted the earlier part of the afternoon to making calls. It was at Mrs. Atherton's that some one had spoken of John Grant, Miss Sarah's only brother. There was an awkward pause, then dear old Grandma Atherton said gently:

"Sarah, you will pardon your mother's friend if she tells you something. John's home is to be sold on the mortgage in three weeks. Did you know it?"

"No," was Miss Grant's uncomprehending reply.

"It is too bad," grandma went on, after a moment. "He mortgaged it to get money to take his wife to New York for medical aid. It did her no good, poor thing. Well, times are hard and a man with an invalid wife and six small children finds it almost impossible to live on a clerk's salary."

There was no softening of Miss Sarah's face. After a few minutes she stiffly bowed herself out. Grandma Atherton watched her pass down the street, a troubled expression on the usually placid old face.

"I'm so sorry," she said, shaking her silvered head. "Sarah could so well afford to help John. She has been growing richer all these years while he has been growing poorer."

This was the subject Miss Sarah was revolving in her mind as she sat at the tea table. It was 20 years since the death of her parents. The family wealth had been equally divided between John and herself. Her share, invested in her present home and judicious loans, had doubled. John had gone into business, lost heavily through a dishonest partner, signed a note with a supposed friend, and paid it, then been glad to accept a situation as clerk. Five years ago he had asked his sister to advance money on his pretty home. Sarah had refused curtly and scolded him for incurring needless expense.

"It may do no good," he admitted, "but I cannot let Amy suffer as she does without one more effort for her relief."

"I don't believe there is much the matter with Amy," the sister declared. Somehow the pink and white prettiness of Amy Grant had always exasperated Miss Sarah. "If she'd exert herself more and—"

But John rose hastily. "We will not discuss that. It is time I was at the store," and he walked proudly away.

Years had widened the breach. Mrs. Grant was still an invalid. The six children were all overflowing with spirits, rosy-cheeked and happy. Sadie, the oldest, at fifteen played at being housekeeper and nurse. The house was always bright and clean, but it was too noisy and disorderly to suit fastidious Miss Sarah. Sadie, too, was another grievance. She was a dimpled-faced girl with her father's clear gray eyes and proud poise of the head.

"A regular Grant," Miss Sarah said to herself. "I'd take her and do well by her. But I won't soon forget Madam Amy's almost indignation at my proposal. 'Give away one of my children? O, I couldn't think of such a thing,' she said. Then there is her ridiculous name. She was christened Sarah Catherine, but it's too plain and old-fashioned, so she's Sadie now."

The shadow of evening had gathered while Miss Grant sat over her untrasted supper. She pushed her plate away and was about to rise when a gentle rap sounded on the door. Without waiting to light a lamp she opened the door, and peered out in the fast falling darkness. No one was there. Her foot struck against something lying on the doormat. It was a long, narrow package, apparently a box. A great wave of the obnoxious box half way to the street.

"O, Miss Sarah!" cried out a child's piping voice. "What air you doing that to your Easter present for?"

"What are you doing here, Maggie Smith?" Miss Grant demanded, sharply. "Are you concerned in this disgraceful affair? Come here this minute and tell me all about it."

Frightened by the sternness of the voice, Maggie came whimpering and trembling.

"I just don't know nothin'," she deand misunderstood? Had she always been just to others? And had not He, the divine One, been misunderstood? Her tears were dripping on the waxen petals of the flowers. Burying her face in their cool depths, a fervent prayer rose from her heart.

The next morning was bright and sunny. The little church was gay with flowers, and to Miss Sarah the very air seemed alive with loving memories of the first Easter morning. "O day of joy and gladness!" sang the choir, and the heart of the spinster repeated the words over and over. At the close of the service she hastened to her brother's pew.

"How is your mamma, dear?" she said Sadie in so sympathetic a tone that the girl's eyes opened wide. "What a little woman you are, Sadie, to keep the children so quiet through church. Here's a note for your father. You can tell him I will come over and talk to him after dinner. I'll bring your mamma some of my quince jelly. Poor thing, I wish she could get out these nice days."

John Grant was disheartened, yet for his wife's sake he had tried to be cheerful that Easter morning. When Sadie laid the little note in his hand he opened it and read, while happy tears coursed down his cheeks: "Dear Brother: I will let you have the money to pay that mortgage. You and yours may pay the interest in love. Can you forget the past and take anew to your heart the sister who has just learned to follow the risen Lord? Lovingly yours, Sarah Grant." —Anna Johnson, in N. Y. Observer.

EASTER.

How Its Wonderful Deep Meaning May Be Incorporated Into the Life of Every Day.

It seems clear that a pure spirit will arise from the seed of a pure body, and a loving spirit from the seed of a loving body. If the body we sorrowfully put aside has been one full of charity, helpful, kindly and eager to speak tender, pitying words—one that has thought no evil and has believed all things, and hoped all things, and endured all things—can anyone doubt what should come of such a seed planting? The natural claried. "I was comin' down the street with this 'ere loaf of bread ma sent me after when I seed Miss Effie Dean come up your walk. She laid down that bundle, knocked on the door and skipped. Hope to die, Miss Sarah, that's everything I know."

"WHAT ARE YOU DOING HERE, MAGGIE SMITH?"

Miss Grant was puzzled. She vainly tried, in the dim light, to see Maggie's face.

"Bring me that package," she said, sternly.

Maggie obeyed. "Now go straight home. If I find you have deceived me in any way I shall see that you are severely punished."

Trembling with fear, Maggie started. Upon reaching the street, she broke into a run. As for Miss Sarah, she carried the mysterious package into the dining-room, lighted a lamp, pulled down the window shades, locked the door and sat down to think. Effie Dean—the sweet, refined daughter of Miss Sarah's pastor! Would she insult the old woman to whom she had always been so kind? Surely not. What had Maggie meant about Easter? A moment's thought—yes, the morrow was Easter as well as All Fools' day. She felt a twinge of conscience as she remembered that her anger against the prospective pranks of the boys had blotted out her memory of Christ's proven immortality. She came back to the present with a start. There lay the bundle.

The part that lives and grows strong is love. Purity and truth and courage are but parts of love, and as it grows greater, by and by comes the sureness of knowledge, and faith itself is swallowed up in fruition.

This is the daily burial of the old man who was "earthly," and the daily rising of the new, who is the "Lord from Heaven." To such a heart Easter comes every day.—Harper's Bazaar.

comes first, and after that the spiritual. But "as is the natural, so is the spiritual." It is far more glorious, but it is not the whole.

So we may bring Easter, with its wonderful deep meaning, into the life of every day. How? By teaching ourselves to comprehend the truth that while we live this human life, and develop this natural body, it is not alone the natural body we are creating, but the seed of the spiritual body which is to come after.

This is not a mystical doctrine. All those who in this life have attained some knowledge of their spiritual natures will testify to its truth. The change from a natural to a spiritual living is like the growing of a plant whose seed we have sown. The right plant surely grows in a man who has sown the right seed.

As the spiritual nature of a man begins to develop, the purer, higher elements in him grow stronger, and one by one the baser sort die. Illate dies, and revenge and anger. Cruelty dies, and all unkindness. Narrowness of mind dies, and contempt for the frailties of others.

The part that lives and grows strong is love. Purity and truth and courage are but parts of love, and as it grows greater, by and by comes the sureness of knowledge, and faith itself is swallowed up in fruition.

This is the daily burial of the old man who was "earthly," and the daily rising of the new, who is the "Lord from Heaven." To such a heart Easter comes every day.—Harper's Bazaar.

At Two Sepulchers.
"He is not here! behold! He is not here!
He broke the narrow bands of His sealed prison:
Lo! He hath conquered death!"
For this the angel saith.
"He is not here! the Christ is surely risen!"

A soul once dead hath found to-day new life!
A buried heart hath broken Sin's dark prison.
And on this Easter day
I heard the angels say:
"He is not here! He lives! this soul is risen!"

THE PAGE COILED SPRING WOVEN WIRE FENCE.

Illustration of a wire fence.

MILLER & COLLINS, Agents,

PARIS, KENTUCKY.

This is a smooth fence that will turn any kind of stock. It is made from the best hard steel drawn specially for the purpose.

HOW IT IS MADE.
The large steel wires forming the horizontal bars are first coiled around a 3 inch rod, thus practically becoming COILED SPRINGS their entire length. These are securely tied together by 18 cross bars to the rod. The cross bars are best quality of annealed wire (galvanized), wrapped three times around each horizontal bar.

ITS ADVANTAGES.

Being a SELF REGULATOR it is ALWAYS ready for business, slacks up for 80 below as cheerfully as it takes a new grip for 90 in the shade, gently, but firmly persuades a runaway team to reconsider its action. An unruly bull is safe as a canary in its cage; it saith unto the festive hog, "thus far shalt thou go." The fierce wind and drifting snow pass by and it needs them not. There is no terror in the locomotive spark. The trespasser is not led into temptation, and the rail stealer's "occupation is gone." The hired man and the lagging tramp, alike scorn it proffered shade. Like the model housewife, when well supported, it is always neat and tidy.

The Wonderful Kava-Kava Shrub.

A New Botanical Discovery.—Of Special Interest to Sufferers from Diseases of the Kidneys or Bladder, Rheumatism, etc.—A Blessing to Humanity.

A Free Gift of Great Value to You.

Our readers will be glad to know that the new botanical discovery, Alkavis, from the wonderful Kava-Kava shrub, has proved an assured cure for all diseases caused by Uric acid in the blood, or by disordered action of the Kidneys or urinary organs. The Kava-Kava Shrub, or as botanists call it, Piper Methysticum, grows on the banks of the Ganges river, East India, and probably was used for centuries by the natives before its extraordinary properties became known to civilization through Christian missionaries. In this respect it resembles the discovery of quinine from the peruvian bark, made known by the Indians to the early Jesuit missionaries in South America, and by them brought to civilized man. It is a wonderful discovery, with a record of 1200 hospital cures in 30 days. It acts directly upon the blood and kidneys, and is a true specific just as quinine is in malaria. We have the strongest testimony of many ministers of the gospel, well-known doctors and business men, cured by Alkavis, when all other remedies had failed.

In the New York Weekly World of Sept. 10th, the testimony of Rev. W. B. Moore, D. D., of Washington, D. C., was given, describing his years of suffering from Kidney disease and Rheumatism, and his rapid cure by Alkavis. Dr. Moore, a native of South Carolina, at Cobden, Illinois, passed nearly one hundred gravel stones after two weeks' use of Alkavis. Rev. John H. Watson, of Sunset, Texas, a minister of the gospel of thirty years' service, was struck down with rheumatism, and by Alkavis, after hovering between life and death for two months, and all his doctors having failed, he took Alkavis and was completely restored to health and strength, and is fulfilling his duties as a minister of the gospel. Dr. C. C. Moore, a prominent attorney of Lowell, Indiana, was cured of Rheumatism, Kidney and Bladder disease of ten years standing, by Alkavis. Mr. Wood describes himself as being in constant misery, often compelled to stop in the middle of the night, on account of weeks of suffering from the various disorders peculiar to manhood.

So far the Church Kidney Cure Company, No. 412 Fourth Avenue, New York, are the only importers of this new remedy, and they are so anxious to prove its value that for the sake of introduction they will send a free treatment of Alkavis prepaid by mail to every reader of this paper who is a sufferer from any form of Kidney or Bladder disorder, Bright's Disease, Rheumatism, Drosy, Gravel, Pain in Back, Female Complaints, or other affliction due to improper action of the Kidneys or Urinary Organs. We advise all sufferers to send their names and address to the company, and receive the Alkavis free. It is sent to you entirely free, to prove its wonderful curative powers.

HEAT PHOTOGRAPHS.

Substances Sensitive to Weak Radiation from a Heated Body.

The invisible radiations from a heated body possess the power of effecting certain chemical decompositions much after the manner of lights, as, for instance, in photography, says the St. Louis Globe-Democrat. Among the substances sensitive to weak radiations of heat may be mentioned paper saturated with cupric bromide, or a mixture of sulphate of copper and potassium bromide, which has a faint greenish tint that becomes olive brown in radiant heat, and if green is used a brown image can be obtained in a minute by exposing to the radiations from a gas stove and on treatment with silver nitrate this image becomes black by reason of the reduction of the silver. Bichromated paper is affected by radiant heat, as by light, and paper impregnated simply with sulphate of copper yields a feeble image, which becomes nearly black when treated with silver nitrate. A mixture of sulphate of copper and oxalic acid gives a paper which becomes brown on exposure. Chlorate of copper is also very sensitive, the faint blue color becoming a deep green. Similarly used bromide of tin behaves as if exposed to lights, but unexposed parts become very black when treated with silver nitrate. Nitrate of silver, which is markedly acted upon by light, is slightly browned when exposed to heat radiation, and the tint is deepened by hydroquinone or gallie acid.

THE COLD IS CRUEL.

Dwellers in Northeast Siberia Experience Untold Sufferings.

The St. Petersburg Geographical society has published the results of an exploration among the Yakuti, a people dwelling in a region of Northeast Siberia, covering an area of over 2,000,000 square miles, yet numbering no more than 200,000 souls. They are gathered mostly on the banks of the great rivers. The climate is a terrible one. There are not more than 96 days in the year free from frost, which begins in the middle of September and lasts to the middle of May. By October 15 the land is covered with a solid mantle of snow and ice, which begins to melt at the end of April. The cold is the most intense on the globe, and the temperature is lower than any recorded round the pole. It is greater on the southern plateau than further north on the shores of the Arctic ocean. During its continuation the atmospheric condition is one of undisturbed calm. There is not wind enough to move a twig, not a bird cleaves the still air. The silence is complete, and all nature is in deep sleep. Yet the climate is exhilarating for all other money issued by the government and receivable for all debts. Each state is to bear a proportionate share of the expense for the maintenance of these roads. The same system to be followed later in making boundary line roads for counties and townships.

Uncle John Patterson says that dairy-ing goes well with fruit growing. "We want cream with our berries." The great advantage in dairying is that it builds up the farm. There is manure for building up the poor spots and the land can be improved every year.

THE FARMING WORLD.

NEW HEATING DEVICE.

Successfully Introduced in a Number of Ohio Creameries.

The accompanying illustration is something new as a heating device in creamery work. Its use is to displace the tempering vat so commonly in use in most creameries, and which takes much valuable time to clean, aside from the often continued roaring noise made from steam entering the water inside.

Some objections have been raised to using live steam in milk for heating it preparatory for the separator, especially in extreme cold weather, claiming that the excessive expansion causes the butter globules to become so suddenly heated as to produce a foreign taste in the churned butter.

Sometimes the water used in boiler may not be good and harm may come from that source, but the same steam

C. F. CLAY 4766.

RECORD 2:18.

Sire of Coleridge 2:05, Choral 2:08, Arthur W. 2:11, Claybourne 2:11, Connor 2:12, Clorine 2:13, Cling 2:14, Lee 2:15, and thirty-nine others in 2:30 list.

Sired by CALIBAN 394, Record 2:34,

(Sire of Cyclone 2:23, the sire of Gillette 2:11, Dr. Sparks 2:12, Cicerone 2:12, Cyclone Wilkes 2:14, Cocoon 2:15, and sixteen others in 2:30.)

1 dam, Soprano (dam of Eminence 2:18, Strathbridge 2:24, Ambryon 2:19, Supremacy 2:28), grandam of Red Silk 2:10, Brown Silk 2:19, (the dam of China Silk 2:16), and of Euner 2:28, etc., by Strathmore 408 (sire of sixty-five and of the dam of over seventy from 2:09 to 2:30).

2 dam, Abbess (dam of Steinway 3:25, Solo 2:23, Currency 2:22, etc.) by 3 dam by Marshal Ney, son of Imp Emancipation.

W. C. Clay is a horse of great finish and style, in fact as much so as any horse we know of. Is a beautiful mahogany bay, with black points, and stands 15 3/4 hands high. His pedigree is full of the richest producing blood which has year after year added new and brilliant performers to the turf, for instance: Nannie Ettricot, out of his dam, has given in 1896 Red Silk 2:10 and Brown Silk 2:19, the latter the dam of China Silk, two-year-old record 2:16, beyond question the best two-year-old filly of 1896. As a two, three and five-year-old, C. F. Clay was campaigned and landed many good races, securing his record of 2:18. His first crop of foals came in his six-year-old form and for several years afterward he was the leading sire, when age of foals was considered. His get all possess his grand individuality and are especially speedy; and as to race-horse qualities the performances of Coleridge 2:05, Choral 2:08, Connor 2:11, Arthur W. 2:11, and others are too recent and of too much merit to need any comment. But few better sires than C. F. Clay are now in the stud. His colts are not only trotters but are show horses as well, having probably been awarded as many premiums at the leading fairs as the get of any horse in Kentucky. C. F. Clay will make the season of 1897 at Emerald Park Stock Farm, 5 1/2 miles north of Paris, at 2:25 To Insure A Living Colt.
